WEDNESDAY.....JULY 31

THE CHAMPION ORATION.—They had an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration at Monteagle, Tenn., and Dr. O. P. Fitzgerald, who was orator of the day, let the eagle loose in the following manner:

Soar high, proud bird of freedom! No longer crippled by sectionalism, let both wings move with simultaneous beatings upon the air, not a feather soiled by political corruption, his flight widening until from his outstretched pinions, dipped in the fountain of freedom, the nations of the earth shall be sprinkled with the dew of liberty! Let the star-spangled banner float in freedom from a million flagstuffs; let the eagle-bird of liberty scream and flap its mighty wings. Let Young America shout within the limits of the Constitution, the resolutions of '98-'99, and the Fifteenth Amendment; let everybody do as he pleases to-day. Hurrah for liberty! Hurrah for America, every inch of it! Hurrah for Monteagle! Hurrah for the new eagle which is the spread-eagle, which, like the eagle in Apocalyptic vision flying in the midst of heaven, preaches the glad gospel of liberty unto them that dwell on earth, and to every nation and kindred, and tongue and people!—Ex.

Recent advices from Washington say there is to be a general shaking up in the Land Office pretty soon, as new special agents who have made some rather nasty discoveries. It appears that during the reform administration of General Sparks the latter was so much occupied in seeking reasons for refusing home-stead claims that he entirely overlooked frauds that were being perpetrated in his name. Officers of the Interior Department have declined to show their reports or give the details of their contents; but the President and Secretary Noble have had two or three earnest interviews over the matter, and have about decided that it is useless to go on with the investigation until a good many changes have been made in the list of registers and receivers.

The costumes in which the Shah displays himself to his English hosts have been something absolutely gorgeous. The gold belt around his waist was fastened with the biggest emerald in the world. He wore breastplates of enormous diamonds, besides which he has a tremendous aigrette of brilliants in his hat and strings of precious stones scattered all over him. A man who understood such things saw him at the opera, and said he would be very glad to buy him as he stood for a million dollars and returned him next day unharmed, minus his clothes. His Majesty wears, among other ornaments, a sash of the order of the Garter, to the order of which he has fastened his enormous diamond called "the Sea of Light."

The Montana Constitutional Convention has been so foolish as to decide that aliens should be permitted to vote before being naturalized. This bad rule prevails in a number of States, but a commonwealth just beginning its independent existence ought not to start with such a blunder. One need not belong to the American party to perceive that only citizens of the United States should rule the United States. Our naturalization laws are liberal enough for anybody. Any foreigner who is unable to wait five years before voting should go to some island in the Pacific and start a republic of his own.

Nichol and Wm. Penrose of Mason Valley have put up wind-mills and sunk wells, and now have all the water they want for stock and garden use. A wind-mill is not a very expensive machine and it will save in one season enough to pay for itself. Large ones will even pump sufficient water to irrigate a number of acres of ground. More of the ranchers should provide themselves with these mills.

It is said that Louisa de la Ramee was first called "Ouida" by her baby sister, who could not pronounce distinctly the name Louisa. But the nickname "Ouida" long since ceased to be associated with the innocence of a child.

An empty head and a full purse are more respected than the man of sense whose purse has been lightened by the unavoidable shafts of misfortune.
